

Labels and learning. Be educated.

As educational facilities start to open, new label applications have emerged. Day care facilities and pre-schools, public and private schools, and colleges and universities all require labels. Many have in-house printing facilities that service a district or region, printing for all facets of the operation, including: administrative, janitorial, teacher’s needs, food service, social clubs, sports, and campus organizations. Labels are used for student and teacher safety and security, communication of events and rules, sealing of food packages, and personnel identification labels.

Applications to consider:

- surface cleaned identification labels
- social distancing labels, floor* & wall
- food product labeling & seals
- required information signage
- inventory marking labels
- student ID labels
- temperature labels
- warning labels
- cooler, deli signage
- wall signage for events
- visitor badges
- parking passes
- educational tools
- reward stickers
- window clings
- mailing labels
- bumper stickers
- shipping labels
